

Step 4. Official High School Transcript or GED Verification

CSON requires an official sealed high school transcript, verified GED or successful completion of an approved home school program.

My school will not release my official high school transcript to me? You may have the school district mail your official high school transcript directly to our office, Covenant School of Nursing, Attn: Admissions Office, 1919 Frankford Ave, Lubbock, Texas 79407.

How will you know that my high school transcript is being mailed to Covenant School of Nursing? Please include a note that your official high school transcript will be mailed to CSON. Please note if your high school transcript is received after the admissions deadline it will not be accepted. Plan ahead and request your documents in a timely manner.

I attended more than one high school? You will only need to submit the official high school transcript from the school that you graduated from.

What documentation do I need if I complete my GED? Please note that if you completed a GED outside the state of Texas you will need to research as to how to obtain documentation per state requirements. If you completed a GED in the state of Texas please refer to the following link on High School Equivalency Information.

Is a copy of my high school diploma acceptable? No, you will need to provide your official high school transcript.

What documentation will I need to submit if I was home schooled? Please refer to the program guidelines from the home school program you have completed.

I completed a Bachelor's degree; do I still need to turn in my official high school transcript? Yes, an official high school transcript is still required for the application process.

Will I need to submit my CLEP or AP scores to Covenant School of Nursing? If they are documented in the official transcript from a college or university they will not be required.

I attended a foreign high school? You will need to have it evaluated by the World Education Services at www.wes.org. It is the applicant's responsibility to submit the official evaluation and official high school transcript with their application packet.
