

COMMUNITY BENEFIT SNAPSHOT

We invest in Northwest Washington's health

Caring for our communities has never been more important. To achieve our vision of health for a better world, we worked closely with our community partners to ensure we addressed the communities' most pressing needs.

Addressing health challenges in our communities

Our community health needs assessment guides our investments and partnerships. In 2020, we focused on mental health and wellness, homelessness, deploying community health workers and partnering with the communities to provide care to those in need.

Bringing our Mission to life

At Providence, we invest in improving community health across all seven states we serve. Called by our Mission, we are committed to serving all within our communities, especially the poor and vulnerable.

Our shared values in action

Providing Care at Shelters in Northwest Washington

Everett Gospel Mission and Providence Regional Medical Center in Everett, Washington partner to ensure men staying at the shelter receive quality health care as they heal from wounds or illness. Many men in this shelter are experiencing homelessness, chronic health conditions, and are battling substance use.

Providence helps fund the program with community investment grants and provides staff to support people in the center's care. The care includes administering IV antibiotics, changing dressings and monitoring other needs.

The care also includes visits to the mission from nurses and other staff with Providence Hospice and Home Care of Snohomish County with an overseeing nurse practitioner from Providence Medical Group.

Tyler Wheaton, a local man struggling with substance abuse and homelessness, was robbed, beaten and left with wounds that weren't healing. He was welcomed into the respite center to recover and spent about a month in the care room.

"It's so much more than respite care," he said. "We get the tools we need to change."

“Every day I'm reminded of the resilience and compassion of our caregivers and community organizations, and even more so as I reflect on 2020. During the pandemic, we delivered on the most pressing needs of our community while continuing to address the long-term investments in the future health and well-being of our community.”
