Trauma Nurse Core Course

Two-day Provider Course

The Trauma Nursing Core Course, developed by the Emergency Nurses' Association (ENA), is designed to review core level trauma knowledge and psychomotor skills associated with the delivery of professional nursing care to the trauma patient.

Director: Cary Van Dyke, RN, BSN, National Faculty

Who May Attend?

Registered Nurses with six months clinical emergency or trauma nursing experience

Coordinator: Mary Davis, RN, Education Coordinator
Providence Alaska Learning Institute 212-3011

Credit: Nursing contact hours will be awarded by the Emergency Nurses' Association.

Registration: Early registration is encouraged as class size is limited. There is no registration fee for PH&SA employees or Travelers from departments where TNCC is mandatory. Please call and ask for the registration fees.

Course materials are received approximately four to six weeks prior to each course date. Registrants will be notified when the materials may be picked up from Providence Alaska Learning Institute. If you live outside the Anchorage area, materials will be mailed to you.

The Emergency Nurses' Association only provides materials for course registrants. If you are unable to attend a course, please return your textbook as soon as possible.
