

What are the benefits of Home Health?

Quality of life is very important to each of us and we want to retain our health and independence for as long as possible.

That's why Providence offers skilled medical services in the comfort and security of home when you're ill or recovering from surgery or an illness.

Home is often the best place for recovery, and research shows this.

Providence Home Health:

- Offers individualized care tailored to the needs of the individual and family
- Provides individuals needing care with dignity and independence.
- Allows maximum freedom and comfort for the individual.
- Supports families while keeping them together.

