Advance Care Planning - SWSA

Policy Number: 86100-PRE-038

PURPOSE:

The goal of this policy is to ensure the rights of all patients to participate in and direct their own healthcare decisions, consistent with our Mission and Core Values, the Ethical and Religious Directives for Catholic Health Care Services (nos. 23-28) and with applicable state and federal law. Those laws include the Patient Self-Determination Act and the Medicare and Medicaid hospital conditions of participation for patient rights.

Providence believes that compassionate care should neither prolong nor hasten the natural dying process and that advance care planning is an important communication tool for patients, families, providers and caregivers.

APPLIES TO:

This policy applies to Providence Health & Services Washington caregivers (all employees) including providers.

POLICY STATEMENT:

In aligning and keeping with our Mission and Core Values, Providence supports patient and family rights to participate in healthcare decision-making. Advance care planning supports patient-centered and shared decision making, including times when the patient is no longer able to participate. Providence caregivers will ensure that patient wishes or directives are followed as appropriate to the medical situation and the law, and will turn to the patient's chosen health care representative/agent identified in an advance directive or by default per RCW to make decisions if the patient cannot express their wishes. Providence encourages patient self-determination and will facilitate active participation by patients in decision-making concerning their care.

OBSERVATION & SAFETY FACTORS:

PROCEDURE:

REQUIREMENTS:

1. All adult inpatient, observation and same-day surgery patients will be informed of their right to make decisions regarding their medical care.

- A. Advance care planning information will be provided to any patient, including outpatients, upon request. This includes written materials, forms, and other resources that support the process of individual choosing a health care representative/agent and considering future healthcare preferences.
 - B. All care provided by Providence does not depend on whether or not the individual completes any form of advance care planning documents. Providence also supports the right of all adult persons to refuse treatment(s) unless otherwise legally ordered.
2. Documentation: When possible Providence will obtain a copy of a patient's advance care planning document(s). These documents can include the designation of a healthcare representative/agent to be a surrogate decision-maker and/or state the patient's health care preference(s). Advance directives can be called "Advance Directive", "Durable Power of Attorney for Healthcare", "Healthcare Directive", or "Living Will". An additional advance care planning document is the (POLST) Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment, which states current medical preferences for the patient. All documents need to be clearly identified in the patient's electronic medical record (EMR).
 3. In addition to or when documents are not available, the patient's wishes may be documented in the medical record in ACP or GOC notes.
 4. Every effort must be made (by Providence Health and Services caregivers) to review and honor advance care planning documents when patients are not able to actively communicate wishes and preferences for their healthcare treatment, including the selection of a healthcare representative/agent.

DEFINITIONS:

- Adult Person: A person who has attained the age of 18 or is an emancipated minor under Washington state law and who has the capacity to make healthcare decisions.
- Advance Care Planning: The process of considering goals and future healthcare preferences, and identifying a trusted individual who can serve as a healthcare agent. Documenting those decisions and talking with others can help make sure wishes are known and followed. Advance directives and the POLST are both ACP documents.
- Advance Directive: A document that provides information about goals and preferences for healthcare when an individual becomes incapacitated or is declared incompetent, and/or identifies and appoints a healthcare representative/agent (see below) to make those decisions. An advance directive is a legal document when signed, dated, and executed according to state law.
- Durable Power of Attorney for Healthcare (DPOAH): The Healthcare Representative or Agent named by an individual in their advance directive documentation who is the chosen surrogate healthcare decision maker. That person is sometimes called the DPOAH.
- Electronic Medical Record (EMR): Patient chart that includes comprehensive information for medical care, including advance care planning documents.

- Healthcare Agent: A person identified by the patient to make healthcare decisions in cases of decisional incapacity. This person can also be called a Durable Power of Attorney for Healthcare. The Advance Directive form normally includes naming of a healthcare representative/agent and is sometimes on a form labeled Durable Power of Attorney for Healthcare.
- Living Will: This is another name for an Advance Directive and can document wishes regarding the type of life-prolonging medical treatment wanted, in case of the loss of ability to communicate these preferences at the end of life.
- (POLST) Physician Orders for Life Sustaining Treatment : A physician or provider order that details the treatment wishes of seriously frail or chronically critically ill patients to have or to limit life-sustaining medical treatment as they move from one care setting to another. This document is not an advance directive but is an advance care planning document.
